

On Thursday 2nd March Longhoughton CE Primary School had great fun celebrating World Book Day. We came to school dressed either as a book character or wearing our pyjamas. We started the day with a character parade in the hall where we showed the rest of school our costumes. The staff had the very difficult job of choosing the best dressed in each class and awarding them a book to take home. We put everyone's name into a hat for another opportunity to win a book. Every class took it in turns to then carousel through our activities for the day.

There was a pop up reading den where we could get nice and cosy and share our favourite books. It was lovely having time to just read and enjoy our books. We also had a delicious cup of hot chocolate with marshmallows at our refreshment area.

In the hall we had a book character disco with party games linked to books. There were lots of book mark prizes to be won. It was a lovely day. Not only did we have lots of fun but we also raised almost £50 for Book Aid.
